announces that the summer session of the University of California will be held from June 25 to August 4. While the university suffered heavily by the loss of income property in the San Francisco fire the buildings and their contents at Berkeley suffered lit-tle demage. The university work will continue as usual, as soon as the refugees who campus have been cared for. The academic council met recently, and in consideration of the fact that the cadets will be em-ployed for some time further in guarding property and the women students of the university will be busy with the relief work, the council voted to suspend the rules, which require that final examinations be given before marks for the term can be filed with the recorder. The students will be passed in their subjects on the basis of the term's work, which was within one week of completion at the time of the earthquake.

In cases where the instructor is doubtful as to the students having satisfactorily done the work of the course examination will be deferred until the opening of college next August. Commencement exercises will be held. The date of the exercises and the form they will take will be announced later. The members of the faculty are nearly all engaged in the relief work, hav-ing rendered particularly valuable aid in the organization of the executive and sanitary departments. Professor Lawson of the department of geology is at the head of a committee to investigate the causes of the earthquake. Professor Cory, head of the department of mechanical and electrical engineering, is working with the citizens' committee of San Francisco, planning the remittee of the page of the mittee of San Francisco, planning the reconstruction of the new city.

Cards have been issued by the faculty and the graduating class of the Martha Washington Seminary for their commencement exercises, to be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the week beginning May 21. The exercises will open with an evening recital by the pupils of the music department at 8 p.m. Monday. A reception to the graduating class will be given from 8 to 10 p.m. Tuesday, and the graduating exercises proper will be the climax of the ceremonies, at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. All the features of the week will be given at the school building, 1214 14th street.

A notable departure in education is announced in Switzerland. At Zurich an astronomical observatory for popular use is under construction and will be opened this summer. The idea is to extend the knowledge of the most ancient of all the sciences be revealing the wonders of the heavens as seen through a high-power telescope to any person who pays a small fee, and it is expected that schools and socie-ties will avail themselves fully of the privilege. The observatory, whose dome rises to a height of 130 feet over the town of Zurich, is well equipped, the largest telescope having a twelve-inch aperture.

the George Washington University has contributed the sum of $20, to be awarded to the winners of the prize debate this year. The donor withheld his name. The contribution is greatly appreciated by friends of debating at the institution, and it has been suggested that each debating society contribute a similar sum. If this suggestio is adopted, the debating prizes for the year will be of exceptional value, and in consequence much additional interest in the art of public speaking will be created.

University, Judge A. B. Hayes, solicitor of internal revenue, discussed the subject of law as a general topic. The address was in addition to the regular lecture course of the school, and the appreciation of the stu-dents was indicated by continuous applause.

To the student of American law the new volume by Frank G. Franklin, "The Legislative History of Naturalization in United States," from the University of Chicago Press, is regarded as indispensable. The national laws on this point are the result of long and intricate debates, where sectional and party feeling ran high. These debates Dr. Franklin traces in brief, clear fashion, beginning with the revolutionary period and the convention of 1787. The formation of the acts of 1790, 1795, 1798, 1802 and 1813 is described, with the influence of each faction and each notable man. The exciting scenes in House and Senate in the years before the civil war are recounted, and the history terminates with the great conflict. While intended for the historian and the jurist and the legislator, the book will interest the general reader from the vivid light that it throws on the early political history of the United States.

President Wilson of Princeton has accepted an invitation from the committee of seventy of Philadelphia to speak at the celebration of Civic day in that city—probably May 25. Civic day in Philadelphia is to be an annual event, its purpose being to stimulate popular interest in municipal affairs. Those who have followed the president's engagements, as they have been mentioned from time to time, have doubtless noticed with interest the large number of invitations of this public nature which he has accepted during the four years of his administration. himself with the firm of Willige, Gibbs & Daniel.

A Saving of $10 on Women's Looking forward to the fifth annual commencement, the senior classes of the Armstrong Manual Training School have organized with the following officers: William A. Henderson, president; Nellie Brown, William Henderson and Harriett Ross representing their respective sections as vice presidents. After a spirited contest Miss Clara Riley was elected secretary-treasurer. A pleasing feature of the election was the evidenced desire on the part of the graduates to select the best material for the offices, and sectional pride gave way to a recognition of scholarly worth and executive fitness. Committees to confer with the English and drawing teachers of the school as to class day exercises and class pin selection were appointed by President Henderson and ordered to report at the next meeting Monday afternoon. Summer Suits
